People's Voice Is Needed An Editorial

It is good to note that a public hearing will be held in Little Rock this Monday on House Bill No. 301 designed to eliminate detailed statements on expenditure of county funds.

The House Judiciary Committee will be holding the hearing in one of the Conference rooms of the House of Representatives at the close of the house session today.

We welcome this hearing with the feeling that it is the proper step to take before further consideration is given the measure which would repeal an initiated act requiring publication of county warrants.

We think it should be brought to the attention of the public. The money involved in each county is the money paid by citizens as taxpayers, and publication of the statements is designed to keep the public informed on how its money is being spent.

The voice of the people should be heard, and this hearing offers the opportunity.

Some county officials and other politicians have shown considerable interest in this repealer. Now we think it is time for citizens to speak out and let officials know in no uncertain terms that the people still want to know how their money is being spent.

We hope a large delegation will attend the hearing, and that nearly all counties in the state will be represented by citizen groups.

Monday offers the time for citizens to demand a "Do Not Pass" recommendation on this bill — which is not in the best interests of the people of Arkansas.

Hijacked Ship Found Off Brazil Coast

By HORST BUCHHOLZ

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—The hijacked Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui spent the night lying off the Brazilian coast as pursuing U.S. and Venezuelan warships sped toward the scene.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said what the Communist captors of the vessel were doing off the Brazilian coast or why it stopped there remained a mystery. Two small boats visited the freighter Sunday night but there has been no sign of movement since, the Navy said.

The U.S. Defense Department said a tracking American plane saw the 3,127-ton freighter ship stop dead in the water suddenly off the Brazilian coast about 7 p.m.

The island lies about 300 miles northwest of Brazilian port of Belem, where the hijackers had indicated they might seek refuge.

The report from the tracking plane gave no hint of the identity of people in the boats that appeared alongside the freighter.

Communist gunmen stowed away on the Anzoategui early this week and with the help of one or more members of the crew took over the ship Wednesday after it sailed from Venezuela for New Orleans, La., and Houston, Tex.

The hijackers reportedly made the captain and most of his 35-man crew captive. President Romulo Betancourt's anti-Communist government branded the hijackers mutineers and appealed to friendly nations with forces in the Caribbean to seize the freighter.

Seizure of the vessel appeared to be part of a Communist attempt to force Betancourt to cancel a visit with President Kennedy in Washington this week. Betancourt went ahead with plans to leave for Puerto Rico today and to fly on to Washington Tuesday.

Although Fidel Castro's regime offered the hijackers asylum in Cuba, the ship was located Saturday off the northeast coast of South America. It appeared to be heading for Brazil, where Portuguese rebels who seized the liner Santa Maria in 1961 found asylum.

Venezuelan destroyers sped along the South American coast, trying to intercept the Anzoategui. The U.S. destroyers Wood and Leary sped out of Trinidad to join in the pursuit but Capt. John H. Dinneen, commander of the U.S. naval station at nearby Chaguaramas, said no orders had been received to stop and board the freighter.

The Brazilian navy stood by to seize the ship if it crossed the

Fire Burns Over Section Near Evening Shade

Yesterday, south on Highway 29 near the old CCC Camp and the Evening Shade community, several hundred acres burned over before residents of the area could bring the blaze under control. There was no extensive damage but the tall grass in uncultivated fields made a spectacular fire for some time.

Court Ruling Favors Truck Service

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today that the Superior Forwarding Co. should have the right to provide through truck service from Jonesboro and Harrisburg to Little Rock and points south by combining some of its certificates of authority.

Pulaski Circuit Court had held that Superior could not combine these certificates although the Arkansas Commerce Commission had said it could.

Superior's right to provide through service to the two northernmost Arkansas cities had been challenged by Southwestern Transportation Co. and other truck lines serving the area.

The dispute centered around two certificates of authority granted Superior to operate between Harrisburg and Jonesboro and between Jonesboro and Hoxie.

Superior already held a permit to operate between Hoxie and Little Rock and between Little Rock and Hot Springs, Malvern, Pine Bluff and intermediate points.

The Supreme Court said Superior could combine any or all of its permits to provide through service between Harrisburg and Jonesboro and any of the other cities that it serves.

Chief Justice Carleton Harris and Justices Ed McFaddin and Paul Ward dissented in the 4-3 decision.

In another case, the Supreme Court rule that attorney John Harris Jones of Pine Bluff was entitled to a fee of $17,500 for representing Mrs. Elsie J. Selig in a suit involving validity of the Ben J. Altheimer Foundation.

Mrs. Selig was a co-guardian of Altheimer at the time. The Jefferson Circuit Court allowed Jones a fee of only $10,000, and Jones' bid for more money was resisted by R. S. Barnett, the other co-guardian.

An Arkansas County Circuit Court ruling that Mrs. Ruby Frisby's right to recover damages for the death of her husband in a truck accident ended when a federal court absolved the owner of the truck from liability was reversed by the state Supreme Court.

Roy L. Frisby and Gene A. Hathcole were killed when a truck owned by the Olin Mathieson Chemical Co. and driven by Hathcole overturned. Mrs. Frisby sued Mathieson in federal court and lost.

She filed a state court suit against Joe B. Hurley, administrator of Hathcole's estate. Circuit Court Judge Jack Pace said here Sunday.

Pace, the incumbent, lost the sheriff's office to right-in candidate George Hickey of Flippin in the last general election. Circuit Judge Woody Murray of Harrison ruled that the past-in votes counted.

The appeal will be made as soon as the necessary paper work is completed, Pace said. He said he didn't know how long it would take.

One Stands Out Against Faubus Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Benton County Rep. Hardy Croxton assailed Sunday Gov. Orval E. Faubus' proposed tax increase on out-of-state insurance companies, calling it "a program of persecution of the insurance industry."

Croxton offered an alternate plan which would reward companies for increase investment in Arkansas.

Faubus' proposals include a requirement that out-of-state companies invest a certain percentage of their reserves in Arkansas and an increase in taxes on premiums of all companies.

The tax bills need three-fourths of the votes in both houses of the Arkansas Legislature to pass. The investment bills need a majority in both houses.

Croxton is the first legislator to offer such stinging criticism of the measures, though insurance companies have protested vigorously.

Croxton lashed at the proposals as a detriment to business growth in the state. He said Faubus is trying to "brow-beat" investment capital into the state.

His plan suggested a reduction of one-fourth of one per cent in the premium tax for companies that invest in Arkansas. He said it made more sense to reward, rather than require companies to invest in Arkansas.

A temporary loss in revenue might follow, Croxton said, but the stimulation of new investment would offset any losses.

Faubus' proposals call for a premium tax of three per cent for all out-of-state companies. That would be an increase of 1 per cent on the premiums collected in Arkansas by fire and casualty companies and one-half per cent on life insurance companies.

Murder Charge

Gambling Bill Embroided in Tangle

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A bill which would create a special police unit to investigate gambling practices in the state was expected to be called for a vote early this week in the Arkansas House.

The bill, authored by Ashley County Rep. N. B. Murphy, has the support of several church groups who turned out last week at a public hearing on the measure.

Delaying tactics by Garland County Rep. Nathan Schoenfeld prevented the bill from coming up for a vote last week.

A hearing on a bill to restrict Sunday sales was scheduled today by the House Judiciary Committee after House adjournment. A House showdown on the measure is expected later this week.

Also expected to be discussed this week are two tax proposal bills. One would increase the state gasoline tax by one cent and another would tax soft drinks one cent per bottle.

Both bills are designed to produce additional money for county roads and city streets but key House members predict that both bills will fail.

The push for insurance investment legislation was expected to continue this week. This is the only phase of Gov. Orval E. Faubus' legislative program which has been stalled.

Also slated for action is a bill raising truck license fees.

Not Enforcing

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—William Spicer, chairman of the Arkansas Republican Party, said Saturday that the state is not enforcing anti-gambling laws. He said "it is a sad situation."

Spicer said the GOP believes all laws should be enforced, including gambling laws.

Wants to Change the State Song

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The official song of Arkansas — a "gilt-fiddle" ditty called "The Arkansas Traveler"—is under fire for lack of "dignity."

Rep. Roscoe Brown of Craighead County called it "gilt-fiddle" and said he wanted to discard the "Traveler" in favor of "Arkansas," which he said was more dignified.

He has introduced a bill in the Arkansas House to bring that about.

"Arkansas" was the state song in the first place. Brown said the song, written by Mrs. Eva Ware Barnett of Little Rock, is more stately and closer to the mood of an anthem.

The present state song is an old melody. A state publicity pamphlet calls it "one of the nation's best-known fiddle tunes." It is believed to have been composed by Col. Sanford C. Faulkner, a planter who died in 1874.

Back in 1917, "Arkansas" was adopted as the state song. It was replaced in 1949 by "The Arkansas Traveler."

Temperatures Are Moderate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moderate temperatures that warmed Arkansas over the week-end were expected to remain through Tuesday, but some rain was forecast for the state.

Occasional rain and a chance of a few thundershowers were predicted for south Arkansas this afternoon and over the state tonight, the Weather Bureau in Little Rock said.

The rain was expected to end in the west portion Tuesday.

High temperatures today were expected to be between 54 and 64. Highs Sunday were in the 50s.

Overnight minimum temperatures were as low as 19 at Fayetteville and as high as 39 at Texarkana.

Skies were cloudy and temperatures climbed into the 40s this morning.

Court Ruling Favorable to Draft Dodgers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional by a 5-4 vote today two acts of Congress which strip citizenship from persons who stay abroad in wartime to avoid military service.

The court majority said the two acts failed to provide procedural safeguards which the Constitution demands, and therefore they could not stand.

Justice Goldberg delivered the majority opinion. Justice Harlan dissented in an opinion in which Justice Clark joined. Justice Stewart also had a dissenting opinion in which Justice White joined.

The high court majority reasoned that the two acts amounted to "punishment" by withdrawal of citizenship. They declared that punishment can never be constitutionally imposed except after a criminal trial and conviction.

Justice Goldberg's opinion explained: "What we hold is only that, in keeping with cherished tradition, punishment cannot be imposed without due process of law. Any lesser holding would ignore the constitutional mandate upon which our essential liberties depend."

Goldberg said the majority recognized that draft evasion, particularly in time of war, "is a heinous offense and should and can be properly punished."

"Dating back to Magna Carta, however," he added, "it has been an abiding principle governing the lives of civilized men that 'no free man shall be taken or imprisoned or disseised or outlawed or exiled, . . . without the judgment of his peers or by the law of the land.'"

Disseised means deprived of a possession.

One of the statutes involved is a section of the 1940 Nationality Act calling for loss of nationality by draft evaders who leave the country. The other is a section of the 1952 McCarran Immigration Act which says a native loses his citizenship by remaining outside the United States to evade military service during wartime.

Dr. Anders' Dilemma

By Henry and Sylvia Lieferant

Copyright © 1958 by Henry Lieferant

"Tell me, Miss Horton, what's your day off?"

CHAPTER I

At Harbor Hospital, David Anders came in for special scrutiny: six-foot-two of muscle disciplined down to the bare necessities of flesh; hair like wheat straw in the sun, steady slate-blue eyes, and a breadth of back and spread of shoulders that were andyone to the tired sick. His smile was swift, with a disarming courage incredibly preserved through a life of hardships.

At the end of a two year internship he still needed money.

Money—money. He swung along angrily to the rhythm of the words, through the heavy metal door behind the stairs into the entrance hall. You either had to marry rich or fall into the hands of a loan shark.

Yet, if some heaven-sent benefactor should suddenly drop a fortune into his pocket, what would he do with it? Medicine or surgery? The pillbox or the scalpel? To follow the Cornish trail, perhaps one day to be worthy of a real association with the famed man of medicine—that meant diagnosis and pure medicine, the art of being a physician, a glorified and sanctified general practice. But sometimes his long, blunt fingers demanded the precision and satisfaction of surgery.

The small dining room used by interns and the office and lab staffs was crowded. He stood in the doorway, thinking "pillbox or scalpel?" instead of hunting for an unoccupied seat. At that moment Dr. Cornish caught David's eye and motioned him to a vacant place at his table. It appeared, almost, that the Chief had reserved the chair for him; a most uncommon procedure, if true.

Frequently the non-resident consultants like Cornish, and Bascomb, Chief of Surgery, and their assistants stayed for meals; especially Cornish, a bachelor, who on alternate days made his rounds in the afternoon.

"Hello, Anders," said Cornish, without smiling. He waved toward the new interns. "Bernstein, Corrado and O'Rourke."

The setup, David thought, was crazy. A blond Italian, a redheaded Jew, a dark Irishman, none of them knowing nor understanding Cornish's idiosyncracies, yet already admiring him.

David stopped eating to watch Cornish. It was impossible to sit at table with the man, to be near him, without realizing that medicine was what you wanted, that you had to follow him if you begged on his doorstep.

With mathematical care, Cornish laid his knife and fork parallel on the plate.

"I'm losing my office assistant on the first of July," he said. "Tuesday is leaving to open an office of his own."

As if his words had been the signal, the dining room suddenly grew hushed.

"He is, Dr. Cornish," David observed, "after only two years with you—?"

"He's getting married." The tightness of his lips indicated his disapproval.

"Is that a crime, Doctor?" asked Corrado.

Nobody had remembered to warn the new interns. Melton, Petrie and Gross signaled to each other with their eyes. Here comes the Speech.

"Medicine is not entirely a science, nor merely an art," Cornish began. "It is a sacred calling. Perhaps my stand seems arbitrary or an invasion of personal rights. I can only advise, and I advise you to repeat daily Rule Seven of your Harbor Hospital Manual. Make it your 11th commandment. Women are charming creatures, but a physician can serve only one master. That master is medicine."

With a slight gesture, Petrie warned Corrado not to question or argue. Cornish's glance included Melton, Gross and Anders. Petrie had already chosen obstetrics and had a job in a Midwestern hospital waiting for him.

"I am, for reasons of my own," Cornish continued, "going to break a hitherto inviolate precedent. If you three are interested, I want to choose one of you to come into my office on the first of July. Each of you has something I can use. The job will pay $200 a month to start, and of course the use of my office for your own patients."

The nursing staff had been included in the general April first shift, but David noted changes in names rather than faces. He liked to call the nurses by their proper names instead of "Oh, Nurse!"

His eyes took in the entire ward of 32 beds; picked out the two new probes, Miss Peters the head nurse, an imperious, handsome Harbor alumna, and the student nurse, Nancy Horton. When his smile swept down the two files of beds, the patients knew at once that they were going to like the new doctor. And David knew, just as surely, that with Nancy Horton on Ward C, he'd come in for the usual senseless ragging at the nightly postmortem in interns' quarters.

Year after year the photographs of the graduating class confirmed as fact and not legend the contention that Harbor Hospital Training School turned out the most beautiful nurses who ever took the cap. Admittedly, of all those who wore the pin or tried for it, Nancy Horton, at 20, in her second year of training, represented the very essence of Harbor loveliness.

Sometimes the theory was advanced that Nancy had taken the Cornish vows, too. Rule Seven of the Manual, which forbade social relations between interns and student nurses within the hospital or outside, was sternly observed at Harbor. Miss Hanniman, the general supervisor of nurses and director of the Training School, had long since decided that Nancy was no threat to Rule Seven.

Cornish said, "I'll stand by while you examine and make the diagnosis. If those three don't go to isolation, the cases are yours to handle." A short distance from the doorway he paused. "I want to make something plain, Anders. The gossips are already at work. The offer I made this morning is not a scheme for the purpose of picking David Anders as my assistant. Competition is open and free."

"You don't think I started that gossip?"

"Nobody starts gossip in a hospital. It propagates by spontaneous generation. Melton and Gross are good men. I play no favorites."

David entered the ward a few steps behind the Chief. Immediately Miss Peters fell into step behind David. Nancy trundled the service cart, properly equipped with tongue depressors, swabs, pans, slides, covered jars and other equipment, and kept a few paces behind Miss Peters.

Dr. Anders finished with the patients and gave Cornish his diagnosis.

Then the signal lights flashed. Cornish's signal. The Chief was wanted in D, the female medical ward.

David gazed after him then turned to Nancy, who was still in cubicle. "You have those slides?"

"They're down in the lab, Doctor. You said rush."

He looked down to Nancy, sitting slender and upright, her face raised to his. Over the lavender and white striped student's uniform she wore the regulation cap-collared, stiffly crossed in front over young breasts. It struck David that he had looked at Nancy Horton perhaps 50 times but never seen the tinted velvet of her skin, the lustrous nest of dark brown curls upon which the high student cap rested like a brooding white hen, the shy brown eyes, interrogating, hesitant, yet fearless.

"Tell me, Miss Horton—what's your day off?"

"Why, I guess it's Thursday this shift," she replied and then suddenly caught herself. "You, too?" she gasped.

"What do you mean?"

"You interns think that a girl hasn't any other interest but men. But really, I'm not the least bit—"

He stared at her and she paused, embarrassed.

"I only asked when you were free."

"But, Doctor, it isn't as simple as that. You know as well as I do that student nurses aren't supposed to date interns—especially interns."

"Nobody will see us."

"No and no and no!" In spite of her seriousness, she couldn't hold back a smile. "Remember when you were a kid—you said a thing three times, and that made it final?"

No. 10 bed pushed his button. Nancy marched past him, out to the ward, leaving her magic smile in the cubicle.

Poultry Industry to Be Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James W. Trimble, D-Ark., was to be in a delegation meeting with President Kennedy today to discuss the threat to the U.S. poultry industry posed by increased European tariffs.

Those meeting with the President, in addition to Trimble, are Democratic Reps. Carl Elliott of Alabama, Harris B. McDowell Jr. of Delaware and Phil M. Landrum of Georgia. Republican Stanley R. Tupper of Maine was also with the group.

A spokesman said the group will seek a solution to the export problem posed by a sharp increase last August in European poultry import fees.

The spokesman said common market foreign ministers will meet Tuesday in Brussels. The poultry fee is expected to come up there, too.

Youths Seem to Like Walking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas teen-agers, long criticized for being too frequently behind the wheel of an automobile, have showed a liking for the Presidential challenge—walking.

And many of them are getting their exercise at 50-miles a hike. The latest to join the hiking craze were seven students at Harrison High School. They covered 50 miles between Harrison and Mountain Home in times varying 15 hours, 36 minutes to 17 hours Sunday.

The fastest time was logged by Bill Hudson, a football player, and Kenneth Reeves. Their route was a mountainous area along U.S. Highway 62 and U.S. Highway 65. The other hikers were Alan Masterson, Peeewe Rogers, Dennis Evans, James Blackwell and Danny Timbrook.

Three students in the 10th grade at Magnet Cove High School completed a 46-mile hike to Benton and back to Magnet Cove Saturday in 12 hours, according to Lee Cassidy, principal of the school.

He said the students were Terry Higdon, Freddy Aikin, and Mahlon Buck.

Four Gordon High School seniors walked from Gordon to Hot Springs Saturday—a distance of 53 miles. They were Charles Cabel, Henry Thompson, Bobby Hanna and Lenny Prothro.

The collegiate group got into the swing, too. Four students at Arkansas State Teachers College at Conway hiked 50 miles in 15 hours Saturday. They were Jimmy Drake, 19, of Morrilton; Wayne Holbert, 19, of Palestine; Larry Griffin, 21, of McCrory and Ronnie Newton, 19, of San Antonio, Tex.

Several others dropped out of the hike.

Two Charged in Rape of Woman

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—Two Negroes were charged here Sunday with raping a 23-year-old white woman and robbing her white male companion.

Drew County Sheriff Jack Towler identified the Negroes as Orion Trotter, about 28, and Albert Harris, 29, both of Monticello.

Prosecutor Frank Wynne said he filed the charges.

The Negroes were transferred Sunday from Monticello to the state penitentiary for security reasons.

Towler said the white woman and man, both of Monticello, were parked on a gravel road near U.S. Highway 81 outside the Monticello city limits early Sunday.

Two Negroes armed with a pistol approached the car, forced the 25-year-old man out, robbed him of Delaware and Phil M. Landrum of Georgia. Republican Stanley R. Tupper of Maine was also with the group.

The woman attempted to drive the car away, but one Negro shot into the car three times and one of the bullets grazed the woman. Then the Negroes forced the woman into their car, drove it seven miles from the robbery site, and assaulted her, Towler said.

The woman was left nude and semi-conscious in a ditch. She finally went to a nearby Negro home and the sheriff was summoned.

Paragould Judge Resigning Post

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Municipal Judge John C. Watkins of Paragould is resigning his post in apparent protest over an Arkansas House bill which would abolish the Greene County Municipal Court.

Watkins said Saturday that his resignation would be effective Tuesday.

In a letter of resignation, Watkins said he asked Gov. Orval E. Faubus to veto any measure that would abolish the court.

Rep. Claude Collier of Greene County, who introduced the measure, said it was designed to abolish the present court and establish a new one. He said his purpose was to return control of the court to the people.

Separation of Tax Bills Sought

By RICHARD P. POWERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said today he will try to have the administration's tax cut and tax revision proposals taken up separately instead of as a package—a move which he said has drawn favorable response from President Kennedy.

Humphrey, assistant Democratic Senate leader from Minnesota, said in an interview: "as of now the tax program is in trouble." He indicated the President may be willing to shoot only for tax cuts this year in the face of rising opposition to his tax program.

There have been calls from both sides of the partisan aisle for the administration to divorce its proposed $13.6-billion tax cut from the proposed tax revisions that would moned.

Building May Haunt U.S. Lawmakers

EDITOR'S NOTE — About $100 million is being spent to provide more office space for members of the House of Representatives. Why so much to provide an extra room for each of 435 members? John Beckler takes a close look at the project.

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The vast shadow of a new House office building lies across Capitol Hill these days, and across the desks bring the government an estimated $3.4 billion a year.

Over the weekend critics belabored the proposed tax cuts as being either too small to soup up the nation's economy or too inflationary unless offset by cuts in government spending.

Budget director, Kermit Gordon, budget to match tax cuts would be self-defeating, carries the administration program before the tax writing House Ways and Means Committee today.

Humphrey said Kennedy coupled tax cuts with revision at the behest of the Treasury Department.

"This generated a flood of mail on Congress criticizing the tax reform proposal and sabotaging intelligent discussion of the impact on the economy of a tax cut," said Humphrey.

"It is my view that in the national interest we must above all, even at the sacrifice of tax reform, get a tax cut bill on the books this year."

Republican opposition to the administration program seemed to be hardening, with some Democratic assistance.

Rep. William Miller of New York, Republican national chairman, said in a Los Angeles interview Saturday: "We Republicans believe it is foolish and perfectly suicidal to grant tax reductions without reducing federal expenditures other than for space and missiles."

of members busily seeking ways to whittle President Kennedy's budget.

Those who pause in their pursuit of economy to look at the massive marble structure, still uncompleted, may find themselves haunted by the words of the late Rep. Russell Mack, R-Wash.

"How can any member of the House hereafter criticize the administration for extravagant spending if we ourselves vote approval of this grandiose project?" Mack asked.

How grandiose is the project turning out to be?

When ready for use in about 18 months, the new building with its three-room office suites for 169 members will have cost $83 million. The members who move into it will be getting their quarters, along with added facilities of the building, at a cost of $483,000 each.

Renovation of the present House office buildings to enlarge their two-room offices to three rooms will bring the total cost of the project to about $100 million.

Since the original aim was to provide an extra room for each of the 435 members, the taxpayers will be spending $230,000 per added office room.

It was back in 1957 when Rep. Mack asked his question about extravagant spending on the project. The new office building then was just a gleam in the eye of Speaker Sam Rayburn. A huge hole marked its site.

Mack's question went unanswered. No answer was really needed after Rayburn stated firmly during the 1957 debate: "I know better than any other man in the House that we need this additional room."

Today a 10-story structure—named the Rayburn Building in honor of the late speaker and covering two city blocks—rises from the site that had only a large hole in 1957.

The building also will have a swimming pool, nine committee rooms, a cafeteria and five private dining rooms. There will be parking space for 1,600 cars.

Each suite really has a fourth room for a receptionist, and also includes two bathrooms and a built-in refrigerator. The committee rooms will rival movie palaces in elegance and space.

Once the new building is occupied the two existing office buildings will get a top-to-bottom renovation at an estimated cost of $18.5 million. Each member in these will be provided with a three-room suite.

Expansion has not been limited to the House side of the Capitol. On the House side of the Capitol, in a few years ago for $25 million, giving each senator at least five rooms, an dozen, seven.

Court Ruling

cuit Judge W. J. Waggoner ruled that her right to sue the Hathcote estate ended when the federal court absolved Mathieson of liability but the Supreme Court disagreed with this ruling.

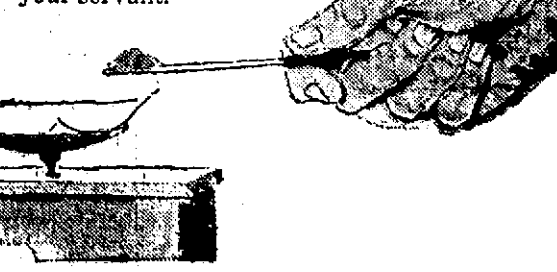

It said the federal court simply had determined that Frisby was a guest in the truck and that Hathcote was not acting as a company employee when he allowed to Frisby to ride with him, and a determination still had to be made on whether gross neglect by Hathcote contributed to the accident. The Supreme Court reconsidered a Faulkner County land dispute and entered a supplemental opinion on rehearing today.

The court held that Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lovelless were entitled to recover from Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Diehl interest on $21,000 for a 26-month period during which Faulkner Chancery Court ruled the Diehls were in possession of land they had agreed to buy from the Lovellesses.

In an earlier opinion, the Supreme Court had held that the Diehls were entitled to $2,600 in rental from the Lovellesses although they had never paid for the property. It said today that interest on the purchase price of the property should be paid to the Lovellesses if they were to be required to pay rent on the land.

Girl Disillusioned By Friends

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I've been part of the same foursome ever since we were kids. One of the boys is 25, the other 18, my girl friend is 21 and I'm 18.

My life has been an open book and theirs—well, as it unfolds, some seems sordid.

After graduating from high last spring I found a good job in another city and took an apartment which my girl friend shared. I thought her a quiet, decent girl, even when people began coming to me with stories of her escapades. I refused to believe them saying, "After all, I live with her and should know."

Two weeks ago the landlord asked her to leave and she admitted the truth of what he and the others said. It all started with an affair between her and the older boy in our foursome. My first reaction was tears, the second anger.

She went back home and continues to be the talk of the town. The fourth member of our group, the 18-year-old boy whom I loved, got in trouble. He had been in court often for driving without a license but this last time even his lawyer couldn't save him from reform school.

After he went away the 25-year-old boy forsook my girl friend and proposed, declaring I was the one he really loved. We are to be married the last of this month.

Few have any use for my fiancé yet's he's hard-working and saving for a new car and our home. But ever since that escapade with my girl friend, work seems to come first in his life, though he insists I do and is in an uproar at mention of the younger boy's name. I care for both and wouldn't hurt either. Should I go through with this marriage? —Apathetic

Dear Apathetic: If you have the will to make the most of yourself, as your letter indicates, break away from the foursome. It is all very well to be loyal for the sake of old times but to marry one of the group for loyalty's sake is carrying it a bit far.

Agreed that it comes as a shock to find that friends with whom you once had so much in common have suddenly become strangers. Temptation was too much for their weak characters. Don't let a fine nature and soaring ideals be betrayed by mistaken loyalty. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper for my leaflet, "Is There a Test for Love?"

Dear Helen: I used to be able to talk things out with my mother but now it is impossible. When I ask her why she won't let me date she lies into a rage. How can I start a conversation without her getting mad? —Desperate

Dear Desperate: Any mother, no matter how capricious, deserves understanding from her children. Yours sounds as if she were a victim of nerves. Be patient. Take it for granted that she is your friend and act accordingly. Do thoughtful little things for her. The easier you make her life, the easier it will be for you to recapture that warm, affectionate early relationship. Once this is achieved, bring up the question of dating. There could be a dozen and one causes for this inability to communicate with her.

Write for my leaflet, "What Age for Dating?" Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Helen: We were blessed with two lovely children. One died so we poured all our love upon the other—a beautiful girl. As a result, she wrapped her father around her little finger. No matter what she asked for, he couldn't say no.

Since I was the one to discipline her, this caused a feeling which has carried over into her married life. Our son-in-law, despite the big wedding and gifts we lavished on them, won't let her have anything to do with us. We put in a lot of lonely hours waiting for her to call us.

We have agreed not to force ourselves upon the two but I can't stand by and see my husband being hurt more and more each day by our daughter's neglect. Do you think it will always be this way? —Sorrowful

Dear Sorrowful: Your attitude should be that of a mother bird pushing a fledgling out of the nest. Rejoice in the fact that your daughter has found her wings and a nest of her own. Like any young couple, she and her husband are discovering that marriage necessitates a complete readjustment with new problems to meet and decisions to make.

As a consequence, the so-called obligations to relatives can be a chore. Let them come to you. Certainly, your husband finds his daughter's indifference hard to take but he must realize that her selfishness is a natural result of his over-pampering. Concentrate upon cheering him up and in the doing, you'll forget your child's neglect, be it fancied or real.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Morality in Youth Group Unlawful
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, in an 8-1 decision today, declared unconstitutional activities of a Rhode Island "Commission to Encourage Morality in Youth." It held they amounted to a form of government censorship.

The court did not strike down a Rhode Island law creating the commission, but it said the commission's activities had gone "far beyond" advising book distributors of their legal rights and liabilities in the commission's drive against obscene literature.

Justice Brennan delivered the court's majority opinion. Justice Harlan dissented.

Four New York book publishers had attacked the law and commission activity, contending they violated the constitutional right of free speech and press.

The Rhode Island General Assembly in January 1950 set up the commission "to educate the public" concerning any publication containing obscene, indecent or impure language.

The publishers said the commission sent notices to Rhode Island book and magazine distributors. The notices listed books found by the commission to be objectionable; state police had been given copies of the lists with orders the publications were not to be sold to youths under 18; and stated the attorney general will act for us in cases on non-compliance.

Justice Brennan, for the Supreme Court majority, said the commission deliberately set about to achieve the suppression of publications deemed objectionable and succeeded in its aim.

Harlan's dissenting opinion said he found nothing in the record to show that Rhode Island had attempted to deal with the obscenity problem in an irresponsible way.

The appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court was by Bantam Books, Inc.; Dell Publishing Co., Inc.; Pocket Books, Inc.; and the New American Library of World Literature, Inc.

Kennedy Can Toss Off Restraints
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the give and take of a fast-moving news conference President Kennedy sometimes crashes through the careful restraints worked out by his official advisers and voices in loud, clear words some hard truth of international relations they would prefer to soft pedal.

In the last few days under the stress of question and answer the President has thus thrown the insight of sharp understanding on one of the problems involved in the present disarray of the Western Alliance. This is the problem of U.S. leadership.

It arises in many different contexts and it appears to be much on the President's mind. A little more than six weeks ago in a year-end review of his administration he stressed the need to get things done even at the cost of disagreement and unhappiness in friendly capitals.

He does not conceive of the United States as being in a popularity contest. He sees it in today's dangerous world as saddled with a lonely responsibility to see that the necessary things get done at the right time and in the right way to save the world from nuclear destruction and from Communist conquest.

The problem as Kennedy sees it—the problem which is at the core of his differences with French President Charles de Gaulle—came clear in a few flashing phrases at this news conference last Thursday. Kennedy was talking about creation of a nuclear force under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Missiles with nuclear warheads may have to be fired on five minutes notice, he said, and the decision to fire may have to be almost instantaneous.

"Who is going to be delegated on behalf of Europe to make this judgment?" the President asked. "Someone has to be delegated with that authority."

"If it isn't the president of the United States it will have to be the president of France or the prime minister of Great Britain, or someone else."

His remark appears to have been more generous than practical. It does not appear to be possible that the total and final control over nuclear forces almost entirely supplied by the United States would be handed over to the chief of a foreign government.

The issue which the President therefore sharply posed is the issue of American leadership. In the present state of international affairs it is essentially the question of whether the Allies now, in changing circumstances, will accept that leadership as a more or less permanent, more or less decisive arrangement.

So long as the United States had a clear monopoly of atomic power it was in position to make its will felt not only in the military but in other fields of foreign policy.

With the postwar growth of economic prosperity in Western Europe, with the rise of Soviet nuclear weapons capacity, with the development of limited nuclear power in Britain and the less advanced production of such might in France, the forces which once

A civil contempt finding against Gov. Ross R. Barnett should be overturned, the appeal stated, and the Justice Department should not have been allowed to act in support of Meredith's efforts to register.

Meredith was enrolled at Ole Miss on Oct. 1, backed by federal troops who moved onto the campus after a night of rioting.

Racing Gets Underway at the Spa
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Hot Cargo and Cable King head the list of entries in the Trivista $3,500 feature race at Oaklawn Park today.

Both horses are owned by Marion H. Van Berg, whose Bouncer won his section of the Inaugural Handicap last Saturday in a record-smashing opening at Oaklawn.

Hot Cargo was slated to run in the Inaugural, but Van Berg withdrew the horse to save him for today's feature.

The field of eight 3-year-olds and up also includes Leluck, Playgoer, River Doc, Kitch's Joy, Hoop-T-Doil and Bone Builder. They'll go six furlongs.

Topweighted is Hot Cargo with 121 pounds. The five-year-old won seven of his 26 starts last year. He was in the money seven other times.

Cable King's impost is 111 pounds. He won six of 32 starts in 1952.

Leluck appears to be the main threat to the Van Berg entries. Leluck won two races here last year and scored additional triumphs at Chicago.

Today's car was to be a sprint affair, except for the eighth race, which is scheduled for a mile and 70 yards.

State Boxers Do Well at Memphis
MEMPHIS (AP)—Arkansas boxers swept nine of the 16 bouts in the finals of the Mid-South Golden Gloves here last Saturday night, setting the stage for one of the state's most opportune moments in the nationals at Chicago next week.

In addition, Arkansas fighters were named the outstanding boxers in both the open and novice divisions, an Arkansas boxer got the sportsmanship award and a pair of Arkansas twins delighted a crowd of about 3,000 with flyweight triumphs.

Port Smith captured the team title with five champions, which means that Fort Smith coach Bill Malone will represent the Mid-South team in the nationals Feb. 25-27.

Malone, football coach and athletic director at Ramsey Junior High in Fort Smith, said he would like to go if he can work it out. At 5-7, he doesn't even look like much of a match for some of the fighters he is handling.

Fort Smith's triumphs were taken by: Tom McCullough, open bantamweight; Freddie Mills, open lightweight; Larry Smith, open light heavyweight; Johnny Obergfell, novice bantamweight; Billy Boston, novice lightweight. Smith and Boston were named the outstanding fighters in their respective divisions.

Paul Guajardo of North Little Rock won the sportsmanship award. He lost in the finals of the open featherweight class when the ring doctor ruled a cut over his right eye was too deep. It ended in the second round.

Paul's brothers, Alex and Larry, twins, captured the flyweight titles for North Little Rock's team. Alex retained his open title on a decision, and Larry took the novice crown with a TKO in 30 seconds of the first round.

Other Arkansas winners included Nikki Underwood of the Osceola team in the open middleweight class and Don Henson, a novice heavyweight from Magnolia fighting for North Little Rock.

The nine triumphs give Arkansas its best chance in recent years in the national Golden Gloves Championship next week. And if Arkansas can establish a titlist in the nationals, it will be the first to come out of the Mid-South since Buddy Holderfield of North Little Rock made the grade 19 years ago.

Holderfield, incidentally, watched the finals here Saturday night and labeled Mills and Alex Guajardo as boys to watch.

Mississippi Appeal Is Rejected
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court rejected today a Mississippi appeal asking review of actions by the Justice Department and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the admission of James H. Meredith, Negro, to the University of Mississippi.

The appeal, filed by Mississippi Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson and five assistants, said federal officials in the Meredith case disobeyed the Constitution, apparently for political gain.

The Circuit Court in New Orleans, the appeal said, "was rushed headlong past the most basic doctrines of constitutional law in the haste of these parties to secure what was, for the Department of Justice, apparently the quinquessence of political expediency."

The appeal asserted "no graver constitutional issue" had ever faced the high tribunal.

The Supreme Court's rejection of the appeal was in a brief order which gave no reason.

The Mississippi appeal contended the Circuit Court lacked authority to tell state officials not to interfere with the registration of Meredith at the university and said the lower court disobeyed its own rules by the manner in which it proceeded.

Bobcats Slam Magnolia in District Win

By CARTER HARDAGE

Saturday night, the Bobcats crushed Magnolia to take their fifth Conference victory in as many tries. At Magnolia, in the Junior Boys District Tournament, the Bobkittens edged Smackover 30-27 in a consolation game. Back at home, the "B" Boys whipped Magnolia 59-30, while the Cats butchered the Panthers 86-49.

The Junior Boys completed their final game of the year over at Magnolia in the District Tourney playing a consolation game with Smackover. They were eliminated Friday night by Malvern. Smackover managed to pop into a 8-5 lead. Then, however, the kittens turned the tables and went ahead 17-12 at the Half. Hope lengthened the gap to 25-16 for the Third Quarter, and although Smackover came closer, Hope took the match 30-27. Jack Watkins was high with 12 points. Ingram had 11. Ramsey 4, May 2, and Aslin 1. The Juniors finished with a 12-7 overall record, a 4-3 Conference record.

Back at Hope about this same time, Hope's "B" Team was having an easy game with Magnolia. The Cats started out with a 15-8 advantage by the First Quarter, and by the Halftime they had really pulled into the lead at 35-11. It was Hope's favor all the way, 50-18 at the Third Quarter and a final 59-30. Johnny Honeycutt was again high with a big 22 points. Jordan had 9, McNatt 8, Henley 4, Thrash 3, Billings, Powell, Coop, Reinhardt, Webb, and Thompsons 2, and Beard 1.

The Bobcats, led by powerful scoring of Dan Jones, really had an easy time. To say that the Cats were hot would be a gross understatement. Quoting Coach Mitchell, "We're ready to take the District." Nothing could stop the Cats as they burst into a 19-8 lead at the Quarter, and a 38-23 advantage at the Half. Scoring 26 points in the Third Quarter, Hope stamped into a 64-30 position by the end of the Quarter, and took the game 80-49. Hope's Conference record is 8-2.

Walker Has Record Time

HOUSTON (AP) — A slender, former University of Houston distance runner has hoofed the 50 miles from Galveston to Houston in a time that would have made Teddy Roosevelt proud.

John Macy ran the distance in 5 hours and 29 minutes Sunday and National Track and Field Federation officials immediately claimed a world record. There is no listed world record for the distance but in 1883 P. Golden of New York was timed at 7:29.47.

Ralston in Upset Win in Tennis

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Dennis (The Menace) Ralston is perhaps the flashiest tennis player to streak across American courts since Jack Kramer, but his success in winning back the Davis Cup depends on a sensitive trigger temper.

"This boy could be the greatest," said Gardner Mulloy after Ralston had whipped Mike Sangster of Britain 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 10-8 for the National Indoor Championship Sunday. "but he must be handled properly."

"The people who run the game almost cut his heart out when they suspended him a couple of years ago. He is an artist—very moody and temperamental—but if he can be made to believe in himself, there's no limit to where he can go."

Ralston, 20, a junior at the University of Southern California, became the youngest player ever to win the indoor title.

Unseeded, he swept through a star-spangled field that included such world-ranking stars as Roy Emerson of Australia, Manuel Santana of Spain and Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex. He beat McKinley, the United States' No. 1 ranked player, in the semifinals.

Narrows Launching Ramp Nears Completion

THIS PHOTOGRAPH MADE SUNDAY SHOWS THE CONCRETE launching ramp which is approaching completion at the Narrows Dam.

THE EDGE OF THE POURED CONCRETE SHOWS uphill from the coffer-dam tip, which is filled with water. The coffer-dam was built to prevent waves from the lake damaging the fresh concrete, and the dam will be removed as soon as the pavement "sets."

NARROWS DAM MANAGER JAMES WYLIE SAID TODAY that the water end of the concrete is at elevation 530 feet, and the pavement will be continued uphill to elevation 552, providing launching over a 22-foot range in lake level. The dam ramp will accommodate not only boats but the Corps of Engineers' twin-engine Black Mallard amphibious airplane.

AT THE DAISY END OF THE LAKE ANOTHER CONCRETE boat ramp has been completed, and a new parking area for automobiles is being graded. This is the Self Creek ramp, and will accommodate all boats but not the big amphibian aircraft, due to lack of space in which to clear the craft's wingspread.

Porks Add Six More in Recruiting

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The University of Arkansas recruiting program added six more high school football stars to its letters-of-intent list over the weekend, putting the total signed thus far at 26.

The new signees include Elwood Brooks of Mineral Springs; Danny Henderson of Ashdown; Steve Hoehn of Malden, Mo.; Bill Rinehart of Subiaco Academy; George Botts of Miami, Okla.; and David Porterfield of Hope.

Brooks, 165-pound quarterback, was one of the top scorers in Class B football and is a top trackman. He started last season as a halfback, but shifted to quarterback.

Henderson, a 205-pound tackle, was named to the Class A All-State team. He also participates in basketball and track.

Porterfield, a 170-pound halfback, scored 67 points last season and was named to the All-State team. He was also chosen the most valuable player in his district.

Rinehart, 190-pound tackle, was All-District and All-State for Subco and voted the outstanding lineman in his district.

Botts, a 205-pound tackle, made All-State and lettered three years in football.

Hoehn, a 210-pound back, lettered four years in football three in track and three in basketball at Malden and was named to the All-Conference team two years.

CRETE launching ramp which is approaching completion at the Narrows Dam.

THE EDGE OF THE POURED CONCRETE SHOWS uphill from the coffer-dam tip, which is filled with water. The coffer-dam was built to prevent waves from the lake damaging the fresh concrete, and the dam will be removed as soon as the pavement "sets."

NARROWS DAM MANAGER JAMES WYLIE SAID TODAY that the water end of the concrete is at elevation 530 feet, and the pavement will be continued uphill to elevation 552, providing launching over a 22-foot range in lake level. The dam ramp will accommodate not only boats but the Corps of Engineers' twin-engine Black Mallard amphibious airplane.

AT THE DAISY END OF THE LAKE ANOTHER CONCRETE boat ramp has been completed, and a new parking area for automobiles is being graded. This is the Self Creek ramp, and will accommodate all boats but not the big amphibian aircraft, due to lack of space in which to clear the craft's wingspread.

Porkers Lose to A&M, Lenox Makes 37 Pts.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Bennie Lenox of Texas A&M took over the scoring lead in the Southwestern Conference against Arkansas last Saturday night, leaving the Razorbacks still in quest of triumph No. 5.

The Hogs fell to the Aggies at College Station, Tex., 80-78, thanks largely to a 37-point night by Lenox.

That boosted the lanky Aggie's point total for the season to 417, giving him the edge over Kendall Rhine of Rice, who has 403.

Arkansas takes on Texas Tech here Tuesday night.

The Razorbacks trailed 45-39 at halftime against Texas A&M last Saturday, but grabbed a 48-47 lead early in the second half. Tommy Boyer kept the Hogs in the lead until the final four minutes. Lenox went on a rampage then, hit eight straight points and pulled Texas A&M into the lead.

Lenox has crammed in 90 points in his last three games. He netted 17 of 17 attempts from the free

Hearn Coasts to 2nd Golf Win

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Former Giant pitcher Jim Hearn coasted to his second championship in the Baseball Player's Golf Tournament with a 72-hole total of 301, 21 strokes over par.

Playing the final two rounds on a soggy course in a steady drizzle, the 6-foot-3, 220-pound Hearn built up a four-stroke lead and managed to protect it, despite a final round of 78, 8-over-par.

"I came here believing I could win," said Hearn, now a salesman who lives in Wyckoff, N.J. "That's the same score I had in 1960 when I beat Alvin Dark. I was hoping to finish under 300, but I played too cautiously."

Despite bogeys on the final three holes, Hearn nosed out Billy Herman, Boston Red Sox coach who carded a 75 for a 302 total. Dark, manager of the San Francisco Giants who has won the tournament four times, fired a 76 for 303 and third place.

Texas Could Wrap It Up This Week

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten Texas could wrap up the Southwest Conference basketball championship this week and if it does it will be the earliest for the title to be determined in seven years.

Texas has to beat Texas A&M at Austin Tuesday night then whip Southern Methodist at Dallas Saturday night while Rice and Texas A&M are each splitting their two games.

In that event Texas would have an 11-0 record with three games to play while Rice and Texas A&M were 7-4.

Texas A&M is expected to split but Rice might not since the Owls play Baylor at Houston Tuesday and Texas Tech at Lubbock Saturday an dboth of those teams are a little low on the totem pole.

Texas Tech at home, however, can be formidable even in a losing season.

The Aggies play lowly Texas Christian at College Station Saturday.

Texas, which has a 15-man squad and 14 of them have been breaking into the scoring—more than any other team in the league—whammed Southern Methodist 76-70 and Texas Christian 76-59 last week to roll on undefeated and untruffled.

Rice, however, was taking an 89-79 tumble before Southern Methodist at Dallas and that furnished Texas with a three-game lead. The Owls and Aggies are tied for second.

Texas A&M was beating Southern Methodist 76-70 and Arkansas 80-76 to be the only team other than Texas to win all its games for the week.

Texas Christian was finally winning one. The Horned Frogs edged Baylor 66-64.

Arkansas and Texas Tech clash at Fayetteville and Southern Methodist meets Texas Christian at Fort Worth Tuesday. Arkansas and Baylor tangle at Waco Saturday night.

Texas' toughest game could be the Southern Methodist engagement at Dallas Saturday although SMU is well down in the standings. Beating the Methodists on their home court has become a major project as Rice will attest.

Kendall Rhine of Rice continues as the leading scorer average-wise. He has 14 points fewer than Bennie Lenox of Texas A&M in season scoring but his average is a half-point higher because of fewer games. Lenox has 417 points, Rhine 403.

The Rice star leads in conference scoring with 218 points—an average of 23.4. No one else is averaging 23.

The Aggies now have a 13-3 record and Ouachita stands at 12-3. Freddie White scored 23 points to lead the Bears over Henderson. Henderson's Kenneth Lewis also netted 23.
